

2019 Northern Plains Weather Workshop

Call for Papers

This conference is an opportunity for meteorologists, practitioners, and enthusiasts in the public-sector, private-sector, academic, broadcast, and emergency-management communities to collaborate and share ideas before the worst of the winter weather arrives. We welcome presentations about any Northern Plains and vicinity weather and weather-related topics, including hydrology, emergency management, and more.

SCSU is first and foremost a teaching university, and we exemplify our student-centered focus by giving students as many opportunities to present as possible. So, we welcome presentations from both graduate and undergraduate students at any college or university on any weather or weather-related topic, regardless of location, scale, or scope.

Abstracts requested by 4 October 2019; please email your abstract to ahs@stcloudstate.edu.
